Dear Trackers,

Wild Tracks - Ice Tracks' sun-loving sister - is making tracks into two new and very exciting (and warmer!) destinations: Botswana and the Galapagos. We are delighted that through our Galapagos June 2019 trip, we will be supporting the work of the Galapagos Conservation Trust, who will give our Wild Trackers exclusive access to some of their incredible conservation projects and experts.

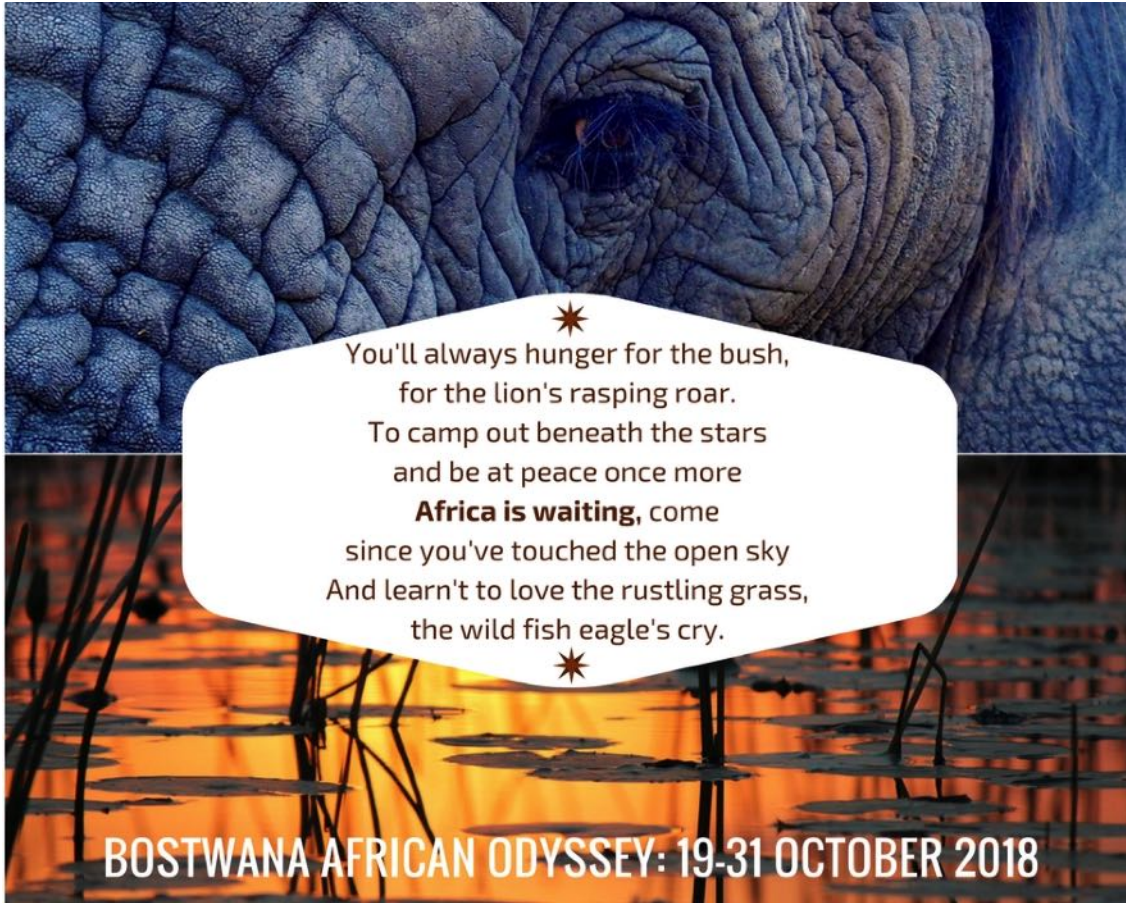

We also want to say Bon Voyage to our cracker tracker, Hamad Alkaabi, as he prepares for his 6th Ice Tracks voyage, this time to the North Pole - he will really have been to the ends of the world!

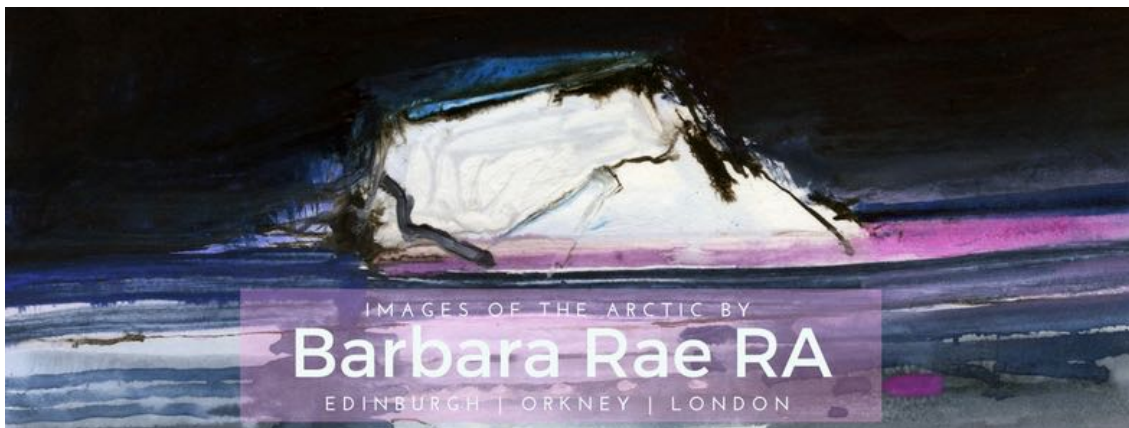

Never stop exploring!

Angie and CARO

An ordinary Journey - images from the Arctic

Internationally renowned Scottish contemporary artist, Barbara Rae CBE, will be opening an exhibition of her latest work, inspired by her three Arctic voyages, in Edinburgh this August and Ice Tracks will be there!

As a member of the Royal Academy and the Royal Scottish Academy (just two of her many accolades) Barbara's vibrant paintings and prints, influenced by her travels to the Arctic, have a profound, mysterious quality: a primordial footprint. Her passion for the Northwest Passage (NWP) is inspired by her namesake, the Scottish explorer John Rae, who discovered part of the NWP, as well as reporting on the ill-fated Franklin Expedition.

Ice Tracks is also thrilled that Barbara is joining us (for her 4th consecutive year) on our FoSPRI Greenland & Baffin Island voyage in September 2018. So, if your night cap is a tot of whisky there might just be someone willing to keep you company.

Please come and see us at Barbara Rae's exhibitions:

Royal Scottish Academy, Edinburgh: 4 Aug to 9 Sept 2018.

The Pier Arts Centre, Orkney: 22 Sept to 19 Nov 2018.

Canada House, London: 29 Nov 2018 to 13 Jan 2019.

Crossing continents...with Sir Vivian Fuchs

When asked, who would you invite to sit next to you at a dinner party?
Surely Sir Vivian Fuchs would top the list!

Sir Vivian's Commonwealth Trans-Antarctic Expedition in 1957 re-ignited an interest in both polar history and expeditions which had laid dormant since Shackleton's Quest expedition of 1921.

The first expedition to complete the crossing of Antarctica covering 2,158 miles with both dogs and motorised vehicles included three teams, one led by Sir Edmund Hilary.
