On reflection...

It has been an incredible year of exploration for Ice Tracks - a year where we have been truly privileged to be able to 'make tracks to the ends of the world' with many of you. Here are some of our favourite photos of the year, taken by ourselves, or by you, our fellow travellers (both professional photographers and the not-so-professional).

We have also just published our latest blog post by Dr Jospeh Spence - Master of Dulwich College, London - on Living with the James Caird.

Never stop exploring!
